

WAGNER DISMISSES MURPHY INDICTMENT

Tammany Leader and Four Others Freed of Fraud Charges.

HUNG FIRE FOR YEAR

Wigwam Chief's Attempt to Withdraw Investment Base of Allegations.

HAD $175,000 IN PLANT

Partnership Row in Glucose Concern Involved Assistant District Attorney Smith.

Justice Robert F. Wagner in a forty-three page typewritten decision dismissed yesterday the indictments against Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall; Arthur J. Baldwin, Ernest B. Weldon, John A. McCarty, Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith and the Corn Products Refining Company charging conspiracy to defraud Louis N. Hartog. The indictment, which came as a sequel to a suit brought a year ago by Mr. Hartog against Mr. Murphy and the Corn Products Company, caused a stir in political circles.

The men were charged with using threats and attempting by intimidation to compel Hartog to return to Murphy $175,000 which the Tammany chief had invested in a glucose plant as a by-product of the Corn Products plant.

Justice Wagner in his decision: "I find nothing in the minutes which inferentially justifies or approaches a degree of sufficient legal proof that there was a scheme to defraud the United States of taxes, or that the defendant formed or took part in any conspiracy to effect or accomplish it."

"I am convinced, in the light of the facts and the legal rules and precedents, that the exclusion of the hypothesis of innocence has not been met, and that the evidence before the Grand Jury was insufficient in law or fact to authorize or sustain the indictment. It follows that the indictment against the defendant should be dismissed, and it is ordered accordingly."

HORSE RUNS AWAY ON CONEY ISLAND; HURTS 3

Policeman Who Stopped Him Dragged Thirty Feet.

A runaway at crowded Coney Island injured yesterday afternoon a policeman and one of them a policeman, but not seriously. A horse attached to an ice cart at Twenty-eighth street and Meadville avenue bolted. Max Rabonowitz, 108 Division street, Brooklyn, seized the animal's bridle at Surf avenue and Twenty-ninth street, but was shaken off. His ankle sprained. A block further Henry Moscovitz, 90 Prospect avenue failed also, getting his arms skinned.

Patrolman Robert Maxwell of the Coney Island station stopped the horse at Thirtieth street and Neptune avenue at the cost of being dragged thirty feet and having his new uniform ruined, being being bruised and shaken up.

None of the thousands of visitors was in the runaway's path.

330 CITY COLLEGE GRADUATES.

Degrees in Engineering Will Be Given for First Time.

For the first time since its founding the College of the City of New York will confer degrees in engineering at the seventy-fifth commencement exercises, June 23, at 10 o'clock, in the main hall of the college, at 128th street and Convent avenue. The graduates of the new school of technology will receive civil engineering degrees.

In all 320 men will be graduated this year. The commencement will be presided over by Mayor John P. F. Fitzgerald.

President Sidney E. Mezes will confer the degrees. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Charles P. Fagnani of Union Theological Seminary.

HELD FOR SUBWAY HOLDUP.

Needle, No Gun, Found on Prisoner After Chase.

Charged with a holdup in the subway station at Fifty-first street and Lexington avenue Friday night, in which he secured $3.03, Michael Farrell, 40, a laborer, of 32 Delancey street, was held yesterday for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Sweetser. Farrell's victim was Peter Bitterman, 531 Kienbocker avenue, Brooklyn, who gave up his money when Farrell threatened to shoot.

The police say they found a hypodermic needle, but no revolver, in Farrell's possession when he was caught after a chase.

DEATH SENTENCE STAYED.

Warden Lewis E. Lawen of Sing Sing announced yesterday that he has just been served with a notice of appeal that automatically stays the death sentence of James Joyce. Joyce was sentenced on a charge of having slain Adam Sittel, a storekeeper, 691 Broadway, Astoria, L. I., on July 1, 1920, when he resisted an attempt to rob him.

ENRIGHT MAY REFUSE TO ANSWER MEYER COMMITTEE

the matter over until July 6, another "original motion" day, and the last for the summer.

On the final decision in the Leach case may rest the future conduct of all subcommittee hearings, for if the Appellate Court should hold that the examinations must be public where the witness is sworn, or that he may have the benefit, as a public official, of the advice of the Corporation Counsel, it practically will be useless to hold any further secret examinations of unwilling witnesses, particularly city employees. But Chairman Meyer and Senator Brown both profess the utmost confidence in obtaining a final ruling upholding the contentions of the committee's counsel, except possibly on the question of holding hearings before subcommittees of only one member of the whole body.

Corporation Counsel O'Brien, on the other hand, is equally confident that the courts will rule that sworn testimony taken before subcommittees is inadmissible. The whole committee, must be in public if the witness will not answer in private or insists upon all his rights. Mr. O'Brien's position is that, while the subcommittee is a committee of the whole, it is not a committee of the whole and it is not a committee of the whole and it is not a committee of the whole and it is not a committee of the whole.

These secret examinations under oath are necessary, it is argued, to enable the committee's investigators to work out and prepare matters for use in the public hearings. It is expected, for instance, that Police Commissioner Enright will be asked many questions, if he is ready to answer them, by the subcommittee Monday afternoon about the prevalence of gambling throughout the city and the presence of a number of poolrooms along Park Row, about Twenty-second street and around Forty-second street, and elsewhere in the city. The large number of poolrooms operating throughout town is another matter which has deeply interested the committee.

Enright will be asked, if he consents to be sworn, why it is that handbooks are running openly in many places. "I find nothing in the minutes which inferentially justifies or approaches a degree of sufficient legal proof that there was a scheme to defraud the United States of taxes, or that the defendant formed or took part in any conspiracy to effect or accomplish it."

"I am convinced, in the light of the facts and the legal rules and precedents, that the exclusion of the hypothesis of innocence has not been met, and that the evidence before the Grand Jury was insufficient in law or fact to authorize or sustain the indictment. It follows that the indictment against the defendant should be dismissed, and it is ordered accordingly."

DETECTIVE KILLED WOMAN, IS REPORT

Assistant District Attorney Selvaggi of Brooklyn Says Shooting Was Accidental.

Nicholas Selvaggi, Assistant District Attorney of Brooklyn, after an investigation of the events leading up to the shooting and killing of Mrs. Grace Richardson of 706 President street late Friday night, announced yesterday that he was convinced that a bullet from the revolver of Detective John Conney of the Bergen street precinct caused the death of the woman.

The prosecutor was equally positive that the wounds on the head of Pasquale Richardson, her husband, which the police reported as caused by a bullet, were really inflicted by blackjacks in the hands of policemen. Mr. Selvaggi said that while there could be no question the shooting was accidental and that Pasquale Richardson was mistaken for a man for whom the police were hunting and with whom they had exchanged revolver shots.

Mr. Selvaggi in his inquiry made a trip to the four-story tenement house in the Italian section, where the killing took place immediately after the shooting. He asserted that he found the walls and ceilings of the staircase "pock marked" with bullets. He was accompanied by the Medical Examiner of his office, who made an examination of the dead woman. The physician found that the bullet which caused Mrs. Richardson's death entered through her eye and coursed upward, coming out of the top of the skull and finding a final resting place in the ceiling.

The course of the bullet showed, according to Mr. Selvaggi, that it was fired by somebody standing below the point in the hall way occupied by Mrs. Richardson. If it had been fired by Raffaele Cino of 505 President street, for whom the police were searching and who was supported by the police to be firing from the top of the stairs leading to the roof, the bullet would have taken a downward course. The bullet was recovered from the ceiling and proved to be of 38 calibre and of uncovered lead. Mr. Selvaggi later made an examination of the weapons carried by Thomas Connolly, the detective who accompanied Conney and the four policemen who were summoned by the detectives after they had exchanged shots with Cino. All of the weapons, Mr. Selvaggi stated, were of 32 calibre except Conney's, which was a 38 calibre.

Mr. Selvaggi examined in addition to the policemen Pasquale Richardson and a number of persons living in the house which was involved in a "natchee" quarrel which led up to the shooting. Julian Arcio, with whom the trouble originated, was arrested. He was arraigned in the Flatbush police court, charged with being an accessory to a felony in that he aided in the escape of Cino. He was held in $5,000 bail for examination on Thursday by Magistrate Reynolds.

Cino was arrested last night and locked up at the Bergen street station pending an examination by Mr. Selvaggi.

these ex-ginimills, nor do they take any interest in the affairs of the little group of men who congregate about the handbook operator. The committee has been told. The officers merely look for whiskey, and if they do not find it walk out after registering the time and date of their visit. Most of the places are visited from two to four times a day, but, the committee learns, the handbook men never bat an eye when the officers are making their inspections.

According to information given to the committee, these handbook operators are mostly walking delegates for poolrooms in the neighborhood, the existence of which is well known in the neighborhood to everybody except, presumably, the police. The handbook men's customers haven't the time or the desire to hang out in the poolrooms, though on Saturday afternoons and holidays the poolrooms get their own share of the customers who shoot crap between races.

Commissioner Enright, it is thought, must know of these conditions and may have an explanation for the inability of the police in certain former saloons. If he men to close up the poolrooms or keep the handbook men on the move, instead of letting them hang out regularly in certain former saloons, the committee is prepared to inform him of them.

Another matter Enright may be asked about is the way in which his plain clothes men have spent money obtaining evidence under the Mullin-Gage act. More than $100,000 has been spent by the police in a month, supposedly buying liquor in suspected places. It is known that a large amount of this expense is alleged to have been incurred by officers visiting places while in plain clothes and buying soft stuff or cigars while "observing" and "getting acquainted."

The committee has heard that in reality very little has actually been spent by the police in this manner. That their expense bills are padded. What measures Enright has been taking to check up on the expense bills of his men, when he is now asking the Board of Aldermen for $300,000 more for such expenditures, is a subject upon which some of the members and counsel of the committee would like first hand information.

The Commissioner also will be asked, if he is willing to answer any questions, what has become of certain records in the loose leaf system of his department which appear to be missing from the mass of material obtained by the committee's duces tecum subpoena. These records refer to the individual "doers" of certain police officers, to the expenditures incurred in connection with some of the department's field games and to the activities of the automobile squad in recovering stolen cars.

Fifth Ave. Gift Shop Where Jackson Visited.

Ovington's, one of New York's best known specialty and gift shops, will open their new building to-morrow at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Thirty-third street, on the site where Andrew Jackson made his home when he was in New York, the building then on the plot being the country seat of his friend, W. Coventry H. Waddell.

The new location of Ovington's was part of the original Murray farm and later was part of the Wendell farm. The old building, which gave place to the new structure, was owned at one time by Russell Sage.

M'CUE IS WARMLY GREETED IN NEW JOB

Former State Senator Meets Old Political Friends in Hall of Records.

ALBANY RECORD PRAISED

Picturesque East Side Leader Specially Proud of His Child Welfare Act.

"Marty" McCue, who resigned his seat in the State Senate to accept the post of Clerk of the Surrogate's Court, for which he has been named by Surrogates James A. Foley and John P. Cohalan, appeared yesterday in the Hall of Records and held a sort of impromptu reception among his political friends. Daniel J. Dowdney, who is succeeded by the popular East Side Tammany leader, who has been in turn featherweight pugilist, bartender, saloonkeeper, ward politician, Assemblyman and State Senator, introduced McCue to the various heads of departments. Mr. Dowdney performed the duty cheerfully, for he has been advanced to the position of deputy chief clerk of the court. That post carries a salary of $6,500 a year, while the one to which Mr. McCue has been named is worth $5,000.

Mr. McCue will not be officially inducted into his new office until to-morrow morning, when the oath will be administered by Surrogate Foley. He takes special pleasure in his appointment, he said, because the Surrogate's Court has to do largely with widows and orphans. Among the things of which the one time prize fighter is particularly proud in his twelve years' record in the Legislature is the fact he is the father of the child welfare act passed in Albany in 1915 and popularly known as the "widow and orphan's pension bill."

"That act," said Mr. McCue, "since its enactment has taken care of 50,000 widows and orphans, paying out to them about $2,100,000 a year. McCue was born forty-seven years ago in New Jersey, but came to New York city as a pugilist. In early youth he was a pugilist of more than average ability in his ring bouts. Though he was for many years the proprietor of a saloon in 701 Third avenue and after going to the Legislature often championed the cause of the saloonkeeper, McCue himself never used liquor and he did not smoke. He always has been a devout member of the Roman Catholic Church. In Albany he became not only a popular personage and a picturesque one, but before his advancement to the Senate he was generally recognized as one of the ablest men on the Democratic side of the Assembly, endowed with pronounced opinions and gifted with rare natural eloquence in debate. He was prominent in leading the fight on the Democratic side of the chamber for the expulsion of the five Socialist members in 1920. In an impassioned speech on that theme he brought the Assembly to its feet cheering him. That was perhaps his most spectacular legislative achievement, but he scored many that were highly utilitarian."

WALLIS WILLING TO RUN.

Is Ready to Seek Majority in Either Party, It is Said. Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Immigration and former Deputy Police Commissioner, has expressed his willingness to become a candidate for Mayor, according to Charles Rozelle, who is heading a "committee of a thousand" to work to that end. Evidently Mr. Wallis stands quite ready to run either on the Republican or the Democratic tickets, as Mr. Rozelle's committee contains members of both parties. He says headquarters will be opened soon.

greatly in need of repairs and in their present condition unsafe to operate in the treacherous currents of Hell Gate. The ferry slips are also in need of immediate repair. Such necessary repairs to the boats will cost at least $15,000 and such necessary repairs to the slips at least $2,000.

"Said assets are subject to the lien of a trust mortgage to secure outstanding bonds amounting to $227,000, on which interest at the rate of 5 per cent. will be due May 1, 1919, amounting to $5,676. The stock of said company consists of 7,500 shares of par value of $100, on which no dividend has been paid since March, 1915. The stock of the company is of no value and unsaleable. The bonds have been offered for sale repeatedly at $10 a share, par value being $100 a share, on the New York market, with no sales. There is no equity over the mortgage which can be used for purposes of credit."

"The company had on hand in cash on December 31, 1918, the sum of $1,729.33 and owed bills aggregating $5,628.64. There are no sources of income except earnings from the ferry tolls. On account of the divergence of travel caused by the Queensborough Bridge, the subway, the elevated roads and the surface lines the receipts of the company have greatly decreased in the last few years, while the expenses have not correspondingly decreased, and in 1918 reached a point where the receipts failed to meet the actual expenses and such deficit became greater day by day."

HAYWARD IS SEEN AS CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Not Interested in Nomination, Says Colonel.

Col. William Hayward, who commanded the Fifteenth (Negro) Infantry in France, is being discussed as a possible candidate for Mayor this fall. When asked yesterday if his appointment as United States Attorney would make it automatically impossible for him to run Col. Hayward said he did not think it would. He added, however, that he was not interested in the nomination.

Theodore T. Baylor announced the formation of a Citizens' Republican Conference Committee to sit in with the regular conference committees of the five boroughs. While there has been no formal discussion by the committee of any candidate, Mr. Baylor said, there has been evidence of sentiment in favor of William M. Bennett for Mayor. Among the members of the Baylor committee are William B. Cragin, Walter B. Atterbury, George E. Wibican, Frank D. Wilsey, Mary J. Stewart and Joseph Behliff.
